Mal Hyde, Chairman of the Bay to Birdwood says it is the loyal support of historic vehicle owners, admirers, spectators and local communities that have sustained this great South Australian event over the years and we welcome people to Rundle Street for a preview of these vehicles a fortnight before the big event.

"It is also the support of great South Australian businesses like Maras Group that we can stage this great event for the South Australian community and historic motoring enthusiasts," said Mr Hyde.

Mr Steve Maras, Managing Director and CEO said "Maras Group is a strong believer in putting back into the community. The Bay to Birdwood is a fantastic iconic South Australian event and we want to showcase a little bit of it in the East End of Adelaide. Businesses around Rundle Street, Vardon Avenue and on Ebenezer Place are excited about hosting the event."

The Bay to Birdwood Classic is taking place on Sunday 27th September and we encourage everyone to line the streets and watch the cavalcade of historic motor vehicles or enjoy the fun family day at the National Motor Museum in Birdwood from 10am to 5pm.
